Jordan's Pledges and Commitments

Pursuant to Resolution A/RES/60/251

Jordan fully supported and welcomed the establishment of the Human Rights Council. In presenting its candidacy for the elections to the HRC, the Government of Jordan is committed to working closely and cooperatively with its members and all other stakeholders, governmental and non-governmental, to ensure that this new machinery can deliver in the most efficient and effective manner for the promotion and protection of human rights.

In advancing the agenda of human rights, Jordan strongly believes that the HRC should address all situations of human rights violations and serve as an important vehicle in preventing their recurrence.

At the national level, the constitution places great importance on human rights and civil liberties and its guarantees conform to the standards under relevant international instruments. The National Center for Human Rights, an independent national institute, contributes significantly to the advancement of human rights in Jordan and serves as a monitoring body charged with addressing any human rights violations; examining individual complaints; and providing legal and technical assistance.

Furthermore, the country has taken progressive steps to ensure the full enjoyment of all women, on the basis of equality, of their human rights and fundamental freedoms. Jordan's commitment to the empowerment of women and gender equality has been a priority in national policy. Equally important, the Government has developed national strategies for the promotion and well being of the child.

In demonstrating transparency and accountability, the Government of Jordan welcomes local and international human rights entities to look into allegations of human rights abuses; and is pleased to extend an open invitation to all Special Rapporteurs and Independent Experts to visit Jordan in the context of their mandates.

Jordan has shouldered enormous human responsibilities. Over the last decades, the country has given shelter and protection to many waves of refugees; Jordan, as a long-standing host country, reiterates its commitment to fulfilling its obligations in accordance with the principles of international refugee law including those which are peremptory as well as international human rights law.

In addition, Jordan has also maintained close cooperation with UNHCR and other relevant United Nations agencies regarding refugees in order to mitigate their suffering and help finding durable solutions to their plight. In this context, Jordan applied for the membership of the Executive Committee of the Programme of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees and stands ready to discharge its responsibilities objectively once elected as a member of the ExCom.

Jordan signed and ratified many instruments relating to human rights including:

- Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide
- International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination
- International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights
- International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights
- International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid
- Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women
- Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment
- International Convention against Apartheid in Sports
- Convention on the Rights of the Child
- Convention for the Suppression of the Traffic in Persons and the Exploitation of the Prostitution of Others
- Convention on the Political Rights of Women
- Convention on the Nationality of Married Women
- Convention on Consent to Marriage, Minimum Age for Marriage and Registration of Marriages
- Protocol amending the Slavery Convention signed in Geneva on 25 September 1926
- Supplementary Convention on the Abolition of Slavery, the Slave Trade, and Institutions and Practices Similar to Slavery
- United Nations Convention Against Corruption
- United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime

Jordan also signed the two Optional Protocols to the Convention on the Rights of the Child on the involvement of children in armed conflicts; and on the sale of children, child prostitution and child pornography.

Finally, Jordan is party to the Rome Statute for the establishment of the International Criminal Court. Jordan was the first Arab and Middle Eastern country to ratify the ICC Statute. Thus, Jordan has committed itself to implementing the object and purpose of the Rome Statute in fighting impunity, together with other obligations emanating from the Statute including cooperation with the Court.
